These are recent shots of the camp. Despite the efforts of every charity present on the ground to improve the residents' living conditions, we are so far from reaching acceptable levels. So much more needs to be done.

We'd like to just take a moment to thank all of the amazing volunteers

We'd like to just take a moment to thank all of the amazing volunteers who have taken time out of their busy lives to help us care for refugees in Moria - especially during this difficult time. It is completely understandable that most people would want to take this time to care for themselves and their own families, but the fact that many of you have decided instead to travel from all over the world to help families you've never met is really incredible. This includes two volunteers who drove all the way from Italy to join us in Greece!

Thanks to you, our clinic is currently almost at full capacity. However, we now need volunteers to join us in June, July and August. If you are a medical practitioner who could consider volunteering with Kitrinos, please fill out our no-commitment form here:

www.kitrinoshealthcare.org/volunteer

Thank you.

Dear friends, we want to say a huge 'thank you' to all who have donated to our Ramadan appeal so far - you've made it possible for us to distribute food packs to refugee families trapped in Camp Moria over Ramadan.

We are so, so close to reaching our target! Can you help us reach £15k by Eid tomorrow? Your donations will help us buy Eid 'sweet treats' for children in Moria, so they can celebrate this Eid 2020 with a smile on their faces.

Thank you,

'Team Kitrinos'

Like Sam, I'm having a hard time with the constant bombardment of the news. At the same time, it's so important to see ways that we can create change now & in the future. We shouldn't go "back to normal" but instead learn from the mistakes and strive for a better future. I've attached a link to a recording of a webinar by MedGlobal with Kitrinos Healthcare titled "Global Health Responses for Refugees and IDPs during COVID-19 in Greece". This webinar gives one model of how to prevent/handle a COVID-19 outbreak in a crowded refugee camp.

4 Μαΐου 2020

Thank you again to everyone who attended our virtual comedy show last Thursday and an even bigger thanks to all of our lovely comedians! So far we've managed to raise £1397 of our NEW £1500 goal; don't forget our fundraiser ends tomorrow so please give it a share with your friends and family! You can find the link to donate here: <http://ow.ly/WbQP50zvtRI>

If you remember from our show, we also mentioned that we're always looking to expand, so one great way to help support our cause is by applying to be a campus rep like Mouki! Mouki is our Oxford rep, which is a nickname her grandpa made up for her grandma when he first hit on her 😂 when asked about it further, she said, "it doesn't really make sense, it's a play on a Greek chat up line that really doesn't translate. Makes the question 'what does your name mean in your language' ten times more awkward." Well we think it's endearing, Mouki!

When asked about Laugh 4 Change, Mouki says, "I think Laugh4Change is so clever. There are a lot of student charity initiatives out there doing and supporting incredible work, as Laugh4Change does to, but sometimes despite our best intentions we forget to look after ourselves. I love that Laugh4Change remembers to do just that, and has built a campaign around that principle. I feel like it ensures the vital efforts to support the cause are sustainable. And that's why SolidariTee, which is also a Cambridge-born student-led charity defending refugee rights and which I've worked with for several years, started working with Laugh4Change. And that's why I did too!" We also look forward to our collaborations with SolidariTee! Find out more info about campus reps at laugh4change.com and apply today!

Been angry lately? Want to learn how to handle it?

According to The Guardian , Refuge the domestic violence charity has reported a 700% increase in calls to its helpline in a single day after the start of the Covid-19 lockdown.

Anger can be due to deep seated sorrow or frustration - a high energy way to express deep unexpressed emotions.

In this easy listening podcast- Three practitioners with an interest in mental well-being share techniques for handling anger and discuss a few facts to understand it. Discussions about breathing techniques, science and a little "dancing on the dark"... to help take control anger...

Dr. Siyana Mahroof-Shaffi - GP, London

Gunilla Hamne & Ulf Sandström - Stress & trauma Consultants and TTT practitioners, Sweden

Having met while working together in Lesvos, Greece - during the refugee crisis, the three activists and humanitarians : wanted to share our experiences found to be helpful in the field that could be used by individuals anywhere or anytime... especially during the current Coronavirus crisis.

Ramadan Kareem, friends! Here is a Ramadan message from the founder of Kitrinos Healthcare, Dr. Siyana Mahroof-Shaffi:

Dearest friends, family and colleagues,

As we begin Ramadan 2020 - like no other we have experienced - I wanted to share some reflections. Lockdown is a relatively new concept for us buzzing busy people, but not for many conflict survivors around the world. Too many people unfortunately continue to experience this as we come into Ramadan.

I have listened to many stories from these human beings during my most recent role as a humanitarian doctor. I have had the honour of meeting and listening to their accounts of the brutality of man. Stories and injuries observed which are too explicit for our highly censored world.

Is it a time perhaps to reflect more deeply about the consequences of actions as well as inaction. This is something we must all be extremely mindful of as most of the world remains in lockdown - a lockdown to protect ourselves from the tiniest of God's soldiers, indeed only nanometers in size, and yet powerful enough to stop the world as we know it. In contrast to the big bully tactics of modern warfare - brutal, bloody and a cowardly show of human inflammation - this new killer operates in stealth mode - silent but still deadly. Sometimes it seems that all we can do is stand back and observe the devastating trail of despondency and death it is leaving behind.

Yet many people in man-made conflict zones have been forced to experience this over and over again in so many worldwide locations. I reflect personally on how helpless I felt, and now in this lockdown, I really am stuck... If I wasn't, how much more would I do? How much more could I do? I want to travel, write and speak for those who remain powerless.

Until then - this Ramadan I will pray for our collective inner strength to make a pledge to stand up for justice and denounce oppression of all kinds. We should not tolerate this anymore. If and when we get through this, we should consider it another chance to do more... to do better. We should be grateful for all the abilities we have been blessed with, be it simply with an intent, or a spoken word or vowing to take action... and then repeating the exercise.

We must each take responsibility for what we, as individuals, can do. Let this month be a month of deep internal reflection and guidance as to where these intentions will take us.

Praying for genuine ease and peace for all in the blessed month of Ramadan. Remembering those who cannot look forward to "the end of a lockdown" as they remain stranded in refugee camps in single room tents with only a divine shield to protect them from a potentially deadly outbreak of the Coronavirus. Wishing you all the joy and blessings of the month Ramadan - stay safe, stay protected and stay blessed!

 Deeply concerned to see the opening scenes of this video with someone half wearing a mask, adjusting another person's mask in close proximity, while off camera another person who appears to be involved is eating in their gloves.
 A photographer then makes physical contact to get a good photograph.
 In the next scene a child puts their hands on their face to adjust the mask, demonstrating one of the many ways wearing a mask could increase the risk of infection.
 This illustrates why reusable cloth masks are so inappropriate in Moria, where the facilities do not exist to adequately clean these masks.
 I am unable to attach files here but if anyone would like to see the evidence base behind my comments please drop me a DM.

 Hi Matt, thank you for sharing your concerns. Part of our COVID-19 Protection & Prevention programme involves educating our volunteers and our patients about correct use of PPE and face masks. You're absolutely right that physical contact should be avoided unless strictly necessary, and we will take every effort to ensure those in our care use their equipment appropriately and follow social distancing whenever possible so as not to increase the risk of infection.

Refugee women in Camp Moria live in squalid and undignified conditions with extremely limited access to hygiene and sanitation facilities. Many are unable to change or properly wash their clothes for weeks.

'Black Orchids' have kindly offered to donate a hijab to a refugee sister in Moria for every hijab bought from their online shop: www.blackorchids.co.

5% of profits will also go towards our Ramadan 'Dates & Iftar for Refugees' appeal, which can be found here: <https://www.totalgiving.co.uk/appeal/ramadandatesiftar2020>.

This Ramadan, help us preserve the dignity of a sister in need by buying a beautiful, ethically made hijab for yourself or a loved one! Thank you.

Aegean Boat Report

18 Απριλίου 2020 · 🌐

This morning 49 unaccompanied minors left Greece towards a new life in Germany. These children between the age of 5-16, will no longer be living in dreadful conditions on the Greek islands, and hopefully more children will be relocated in the near future. It's time for all countries in Europe to take their responsibility, to relocate all unaccompanied children from the inhuman camps in Greece is the first step.

Previously 12 children was relocated to Luxemburg on Wednesday. France, Portugal, Finland, Lithuania, Croatia and Ireland are also part of an EU programme to take in some of the 1,600 vulnerable minors from Greek camps. It's sad to see that Finland is the only one amongst the Nordic countries that has said yes to this relocation program, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Iceland has so far denied to participate.

It's a small number, but it's a start, and for these children it means a news start in life, that will change them forever. Hopefully more European countries will participate, Luxembourg and Germany send a strong message for others to follow. Greece has been trying to handle this crisis alone for to long, it's time for Europe to step up, take it's responsibility!

The Norwegian government has so far denied to participate in the relocation of unaccompanied minors from the Greek islands, a people's uprising is trying to "force" the Norwegian government to change it's decision. Norway is one of the richest countries in the world, and should take a much bigger responsibility, than they have so far. The movement "evacuate the children from Moria now!", has done a remarkable job, political parties, religious leaders, humanitarian organizations and municipalities stands behind this demand, and demands that the Norwegian government changes it's policy. This is a good example that people can change their government's decision, and groups like this one should be formed in all European countries that refuse to participate in this humanitarian crisis.

<https://www.facebook.com/evakuerbarnafmorianaa/>

The European initiative was launched last month by the EU commission in order to ease the pressure on European Union member Greece. The children concerned in the programme either have medical needs or are unaccompanied and under 14 years of age.

Luxembourg's Foreign Minister Jean Asselborn issued a plea on Wednesday, saying that if tiny Luxembourg could manage it, so too could other states.

"This is the first step, and it's a small measure of solidarity that we must give to the Greeks and the refugees," Asselborn told German broadcaster Deutschland Funk.

"The European Union is a peace project, you know that. It involves humanity, compassion — qualities which, I believe, were at the birthplace of the European Union after the war, and they must continue to be for the generations to come."

"There is no reason to leave children in the garbage dumps of the islands in Greece," he said. "If the EU still wants to be able to look in the mirror, there is no country that has any reason not to help here."

"It is not a matter of 'if' but 'when' coronavirus strikes the camps," said Sanne van der Kooij, a Dutch gynaecologist who has similarly volunteered in Moria multiple times. "I do not have a good feeling. I was last in Lesbos in February and worked at the local hospital where pregnant refugee women are moved to give birth. There were only six ICU beds and the care was very poor. The bed linens were filthy and the Greek doctors and nurses were clearly overwhelmed by the extra work."

KITRINOS - COVID-19 Emergency Grant Recipient

SolidariTee are honoured to be supporting Kitrinos Healthcare, an NGO working to provide medical care in Moria, Lesvos, one of the most unsanitary and densely populated refugee camps in Greece. Kitrinos have been providing medical care to refugees for the past four years, and are currently preparing for an outbreak of COVID-19 in Moria. When you buy a SolidariTee, 75% of your £10 t-shirt will be used to enable Kitrinos to protect refugees from the outbreak. This will include preparing a site to be used as a 'nightingale' field hospital, preventing the spread of the virus by educating people about measures such as social distancing and hand-washing, and evacuating the most vulnerable people from camps.

We've pledged £10,000 to Kitrinos - any contribution towards this will make an enormous difference.

Lesvos: Attacks on Humanitarian Volunteers

Weds 4th March 2020

As migrant arrivals from Turkey to Greece have increased over the past days, there have been reports of excessive force used against refugees on the land and sea border between Turkey and Greece, including the prevention of boats from coming ashore on Lesbos Island.

During the late hours of Sunday afternoon, there was an uncharacteristic and sudden surge of violence from extremist factions on the island of Lesbos towards members of our team. Many were left stranded overnight in Camp Moria where they had been running an emergency clinic during the day. Fortunately, none of our volunteers were harmed but many left the island soon after. Our work in the field would not be possible if it were not for the brave and noble self-funding volunteers who come from far and wide to be of service in our clinic. Although we are relieved that no members of our team were directly harmed by the recent attacks, we know that many will be scarred by this terrible experience.

For the past five years, Kitrinis Healthcare (an Anglo-Greek Charity) has provided medical care in twenty locations across Greece and is currently responsible for several thousand consultations weekly. Our mission is to ensure accessible healthcare to all. Our 65-member field team of international volunteers and local community staff provide free emergency, obstetrics, paediatric care and medication, as well as psycho-social support. We work in collaboration with Greek health authorities and other international partners. We have a firm commitment to continue in this spirit of mutual respect with the Greek health authorities and the Greek residents of these islands that have been significantly impacted since the onset of the crisis.

Since the European Migrant crisis reached its peak in 2015, the response from locals in Lesbos has been full of kindness and compassion. The majority are wonderful humanitarians who have selflessly cared for victims of war arriving on their shores. They have offered food, clothing and shelter. These quiet acts of kindness were done with sincerity and with no expectation of publicity nor reward.

"Amongst the local Greek people are some of the best humanitarians I have ever met. The recent violence is completely out of character for these peace-loving people. It is clear though that enough is enough and the world needs to take note of the burden that these small islands have been shouldering..."

- Dr Siyana Mahroof-Shaffi (Medical Director, 'Team Kitrinis')

Kitrinis Healthcare reiterate our commitment to serving refugees and vulnerable people in Greece and beyond, and that all have the right to seek asylum. We urge the Greek authorities and UNHCR to prioritise the protection and rights of refugees arriving in Greece.

Crucially, the safety of all humanitarian workers who are freely offering their services is paramount. Our clinic has been closed for the last three days and we have serious concerns regarding the impact this will have on the vulnerable families and children living in Moria. We are grateful to the local police who are doing their best to restore calm on the island. We urge the authorities to ensure that humanitarians are allowed to do their jobs without interruption.

We urge governments in the US, UK, Europe and the international community to support the Greek government by recognising and relieving the ongoing burden in the country. We urge them to facilitate transfers, even if on a temporary basis, out of Greece for the most vulnerable in our clinics. This should quieten the angry voices of frustration as well as ensuring that the international community carries out its ethical commitments.

'More than 42,000 men, women and children are estimated to be on Lesbos, Samos, Chios, Leros and Kos. Kitrinos volunteer Alexia writes about her experience in Moria for the National Herald:

'Between triage, organizing the drug supplies, preparing prescriptions and helping in wound care, I consulted patients alongside exceptional physicians. Amongst common illnesses like diarrhea, skin and respiratory infections, what struck me the most were the cases of mental disorders such as depression, PTSD, anxiety and trauma.'

[The patient] is 21 years old. He arrived with a knife laceration on his neck. We asked how it happened and he turned his head away. "He has been living in the 'Jungle' [outside the overflowing refugee camp] alone, with no family left," the interpreter said.'

'There is no electricity and very little water. Among piles of rubbish, thousands of people are busy surviving, pulling branches from the olive grove for fires to cook on, rolling flour into flatbreads, stringing tarpaulin over pallets to make new shelters. Women breastfeed on the muddy ground. And there are hundreds of children. According to the UNHCR, 42% of the 20,000 migrants in and around Moria are under 18, and nearly half of those are under 12.'

'In the last six months [Camp Moria] has grown to be a shanty town of 19,000, 40% of whom are under 18. Around 13,000 of those are living in a filthy unofficial camp of tarpaulin tents and makeshift huts made of pallets, in an olive grove surrounding the main site. There is no electricity, not enough water and rivers of mud and rubbish run through the tents.'

Urgent call for medical volunteers in December 2019 and January 2020!

Are you a doctor, nurse or pharmacist who could spare a minimum of 1 week to volunteer with an international charity providing medical care to refugees in Camp Moria, Lesvos?

We know this is a busy time of year for many, but the situation in Moria is dire, with refugees arriving daily and more vulnerable people coming to us with winter infections and illnesses... Δείτε περισσότερα

I am an Advanced Paramedic Practitioner (Urgent Care), I have just registered to volunteer. Unfortunately I can only travel to Greece for 2 weeks (24th Jan - 7th Feb) does this mean I will be unable to volunteer as it is less than 3 weeks?

Μου αρέσει! Απάντηση 3 χρ.

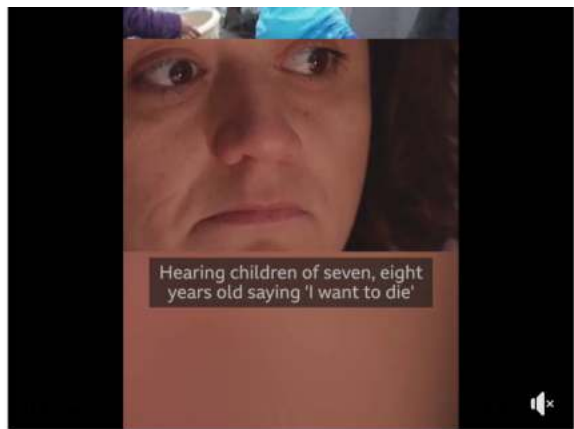

Team Kitrinos
Hi Abi Evans, apologies for the delayed response. It's great to hear you have registered; 3+ weeks is ideal but we do accept doctors who can only stay for 2 weeks, especially during particularly difficult times (such as over the winter period).
