THE C WORDS - Cancer and Covid.
While COVID-19 took over healthcare systems worldwide, life-limiting and chronic disease did not magically disappear. In fact, in many cases, it got worse.

Asylum seekers who arrived to Greece with complicated medical issues were often unable to access life-saving care due to Covid-related healthcare closures. While this reality impacted all people, asylum-seekers whose claims for asylum were denied have since lost healthcare insurance, meaning accessing necessary diagnostic treatment has become nearly impossible. In Lesvos and in Athens, we see people who live with cancer having to neglect their illness due to inaccessibility. Could you live like this?

When we learn of patients in this situation, we do an initial assessment with them to understand exactly what is needed. We then are able to get appointments, provide interpretation, accompany for emotional support, and ensure that they no longer are having to live with uncertainty. By providing this individualized care, we hope to get people the answers they need to make informed decisions about their life and livelihood.

I have a brain tumour. In my home country I was under treatment for it. When I came to Greece, Covid-19 started and I couldn't get any MRI. For three years, I haven't known if it's gotten worse or better. I don't know if it grew or shrunk. I don't have any insurance, so I don't know

EVICTED | HOMELESS | SICK
 2022 has been an exceptionally difficult year for refugees and asylum seekers in Europe. In February 2022, the closure of the ESTIA program in Greece was announced, which has, for the last several years, provided people with housing. As a result, thousands of people find themselves evicted and living on the streets or in precarious conditions. In some cases, these forced evictions have led to violence.

We receive dozens of desperate messages from people who find themselves locked out of their apartments, unsure of where to go and how to continue. In many cases, these people and their children have serious medical conditions. We do our best to not lose touch with these people and work with a network of organizations to find (temporary) solutions.

 Our recently expanded project in Athens has been hugely successful!
 We are focusing on three key points to ensure vulnerable populations get the best possible care.

Inter-European Deportation - Sending sick families from Iceland to Athens
Last week, over a dozen asylum-seekers were deported from Iceland to Greece by force. In one case, a man who requires a wheelchair was forcefully removed from his wheelchair and was not provided any alternative!

"The Icelandic Red Cross, Reykjavik Branch has issued a detailed report citing numerous sources that concludes, as has been done many times before, that deporting people to Greece, and children in particular, will send them to a life lived on the street with little to no access to housing, jobs or healthcare"

We can attest to the despair that awaits asylum seekers and recognized refugees who arrive in Athens and hope this practice does not become common place.

Single mothers

Being a single mother is the hardest job in the world. In Athens, if you are a single refugee mother with four children, and one needs to see a doctor as an emergency in the middle of the night, what would you do? Where would you go? How would you tell the doctors what was wrong? Where would you leave your kids? We are working on a plan to respond to these harrowing, and far too frequent situations so that in urgent situations, single mothers can focus on their baby's health and not worry about anything else.

Now what?!

The time that people spend on the Aegean islands has decreased substantially. But it doesn't mean they are prepared for Athens. When refugees arrive in the big city, they must figure out transportation, accommodation, access to social services, healthcare...and often, they have to navigate this with little or no Greek language. We regularly see people we met in Lesbos struggling to meet their most basic needs.

THE STORIES BEHIND THE NUMBERS

For months, people on the ground in Greece commented that asylum-seeker and refugee numbers on the Aegean islands were trending down. This is true - since 2019, when the migration population of the Aegean islands reached over 40,000 people, the islands have decreased drastically in numbers. However, lower numbers hasn't meant less trauma - it just means the stories have changed. In #Lesvos we see two extremes: those who have arrived to the camp, have their asylum interviews with little or no legal preparation, and take a decision sometimes as soon as ten days upon arrival; and those who languish on Lesvos, sometimes stuck for more than three years, awaiting decisions.

Both experiences bring with them trauma, stress, and concern. For those processed quickly, they often do not have time to adequately prepare. If they receive a positive decision, they suddenly find themselves with no social supports and an order to move off the island. As a result, numbers in mainland Greece have swollen to an unmanageable number. For those who have to wait months and years, they have effectively had to put their lives - and wellbeing - on hold.

Bearing witness to all this means we have seen thousands of vulnerable people in different states of concern.

It doesn't matter whether the number of people in the camp is 20,000 or 2,000, and whether we meet them for three weeks or three years - each person has a story, a concern, a need, and a goal - and each has a right to be cared for.

Unfortunately, we have seen the concerns of thousands of refugees in Greece drop out of mainstream media coverage. Many NGOs have scaled back their services in Lesvos, and in many ways, the gaps that were prevalent at the height of the refugee crisis in Greece persist to this day. In our own small way, we are doing everything we can to adapt to these changes and to continue to provide interpretation, medical logistics, and case management for a growing number of people in need all over #Greece.

LANGUAGE JUSTICE

Language and communication are the only instruments we have to convey important messages with each other. For #refugees and #asylumseekers language can be a barrier that results in a life or death situation. When someone goes to the doctor, seeks legal advice, needs psychological intervention, or needs to navigate the bureaucracy of a new country, the ability to communicate is the most important. Improperly conveyed messages have devastating consequences.

In #Greece, refugees face several barriers in accessing services due to linguistic obstacles. Withholding service due to language barriers should never occur. This is #LanguageJustice - a concept that Eudaimonia Medical Services is taking seriously, to ensure that no refugee, asylum-seeker, or vulnerable person faces a system without full comprehension and ability to self-advocate.

This is why we have had a team of 20-35 interpreters since we began - to make sure that everyone can access their most basic of rights, regardless of who they are. So whether our beneficiaries are speaking #Farsi, #Dari, #Pashto, #Arabic, #French, #Portuguese, #Urdu, #Lingala, #Kurdish or even need translation between #Greek and #English, we are committed to enshrining their rights and facilitating an easier communication transaction.

August is often a time of reflection, more especially for humanitarian organizations in Greece. With the unrelenting heat, the whole country takes its annual holiday and organizations like us reflect on how we want to continue for the remaining quarter of the year.

For Eudaimonia, with a team made up of asylum-seekers and recognized refugees, as well as Greek and international team members, August is also a tough month. For those from Afghanistan, we remember the horrors of the Taliban taking over one year ago. For those from Syria, we remember the attack of Ghouta. For those from Somalia, we watch in horror as terrorist attacks continue. For Greeks, we see a country besieged by wild fires and tension at the borders.

Simply put, August is overwhelming for humanity: no matter where you are from.

We have spent these months working harder than ever before, creating new strategies, with new partners, and a mission that more accurately reflects the situation on the ground.

We invite you to reflect on the hardship of August, and to look along with us at the hope September brings. We look forward to unveiling our new operations and updating our long-term and new supporters on what we have done and where we are going.

This past week we were happy to host Amber, the Founder of our long-time supporter @forRefugees. While news from Lesvos is quiet these days, we were able to show her that despite the lack of attention, there are still very real human needs at the core of what we are doing.

As Katie was showing me around the medical area of the Mavrovouni Refugee Camp "Moria 2", two new arrivals were brought into the COVID quarantine area.

Although they had only just reached camp, I knew their boat had landed on Lesvos around six days' ago. It was very likely during that time they'd have had no food or water, hiding scared in the 'jungle'.

As is too often the case for those finally reaching Mavrovouni, they were completely exhausted.

Katie's team knew there were two arrivals being registered at camp so were waiting for them. Ready with warm, welcoming smiles and pre-prepared packs including some clothes, shoes, hygiene items, bedding and, of course, water and some food.

Katie and I both had goosebumps. Both grateful that another two vulnerable young people had made it into fortress Europe and, for today at least, were going to be safe.

Katie's vision for Eudiamonia is impressive. She's provided translators at refugee medical appointments, so that people understand what's happening to them, arranged taxi transport to hospital appointments, paid for medical examinations like MRIs and pet scans and looked after people in quarantine.

She's recently set up a small team making a big difference in Athens too.

Like nearly everyone helping refugees in Greece, Eudaimonia is suffering from a lack of funding and Katie is really sad to be forced to scale back services.

Today they're still providing interpreters and looking after the quarantine area but there's just not enough donations coming in for patient transport or medical examinations and it's devastating to know this puts people's lives at risk.

We've used your donations supporting Eudaimonia in Lesvos several times. Their team supports human rights and protects people's physical health and I hope they're here for the refugee community for a long time to come.

Only when YOU keep donating to our work, can WE keep supporting amazing people like Katie running life-changing projects like Eudaimonia Medical Services. So please donate now and whenever you can.

ATHENS "Your presence is crucial"

Periods of quiet on social media usually mean things are busy in the field - and are we ever excited to introduce to you what has been keeping us busy! Since February, Eudaimonia has been working seven days a week to kickstart our Athens program, where we provide interpretation and logistical support for those requiring medical attention.

"In the [camp's] social service we discuss every day about Eudaimonia, your presence is crucial for us and our people. Thank you a lot, really!"

EUDAIMONIA

ATHENS

Athens - Case Work

Since February, we have been working in Athens providing our services in a more focused way: assisting patients to access medical care by providing caseworkers and interpreters.

First Quarter

In three months, we have provided over two hundred separate interpretations and undertaken dozens of medical and social cases, referred to us by over ten different actors.

This has included organizing surgeries, providing medication, advocating for patients, and finding sustainable housing.

? What is it? ?

👉 Since our start, Eudaimonia has been running the Complex Cases Program. We receive referrals of medical cases from various actors. The patients we work with and for cannot access public health services due to their legal status, a lack of availability, or to the very long waiting list to access certain medical services. For a availability, or to the very long waiting list to access certain medical services. For a lot of people, waiting for several months to be diagnosed can be life-compromising. One of our focus area in the Complex Cases Program is the booking of specialist appointments.

📍 Specialist appointments 📍

👉 On the appointment day, we guide the patients through the necessary steps to be allowed out of camp, provide transportation services to and from their appointment location, as well as any logistical arrangements that specific cases may require, and provide interpretation services for them during medical consultations. At the completion of the exams or medical consultations, we proceed with the payment and follow-up with the patients to make sure they receive the results and understand the necessary steps to be taken to access further medical care.

💜 We need your support to continue our operation, please donate on this link: <https://chuffed.org/project/help-complex-cases-program>

? WHAT DO WE DO ?

😊 It's been a couple of months that Eudaimonia Medical Services is in charge, alongside Greek authorities, of the isolation area of the RIC Mavrovouni Camp.

👉 Our team is available 24/7 to welcome any new arrivals. We keep track of the number of people who are living in the isolation area. With the help of Eurorelief, Eudaimonia provides them with Non-Food Items upon arrival (i.e. blankets, sleeping bag, bedsheets, etc.). Our team carries out distribution of the food that is provided by the State. The medical care is handled by the Public Health Authorities. Now that there are WASH facilities we hope to be a part of making this area as comfortable as possible

Isolation area

Since the end of January 2022, Eudaimonia Medical Services is in charge, alongside Greek authorities, of the management of the isolation area in the RIC Mavrovouni camp. The isolation area hosts three different types of people: the camp residents who tested positive to Covid-19, the camp residents who were in close contact with the positive cases and the new arrivals.

STORIES OF OUR PATIENTS 🗨️

👤 T. and F. are a couple from Afghanistan who have been living in Lesbos for the past nine months with their three minor children. T. lost her glasses while crossing the sea from Turkey to Greece and F. lost his during the re-housing process in camp (moving from one tent to another)

🚫 Unfortunately, their asylum request has been rejected twice, which means that they have lost their right to medical insurance in Greece. This is how they ended up being registered in our complex cases program

🏥 Eudaimonia arranged a meeting with the ophthalmologist for their sight to be re-assessed and get a prescription for new glasses. They were accompanied all the way by S., one of our translators. Both F. and T. were provided with the two pairs they needed, one to see from a distance and one to see closer.

💜 To be able to continue our activities we really need your support, please donate on this link: <https://chuffed.org/project/eudaimonia>

// 11 YEARS OF WAR IN SYRIA //

✖ Today we acknowledge the devastating anniversary of the Syrian war.

👤 As many of our team members are Syrian, this conflict is always on our minds. Eudaimonia Medical Services thinks of all the people who were and are still affected by this terrible conflict.

Before the war, the Syrian population was of 22 million people. Since then, more than half of the population was forced to flee their home. As of June 2021, the UNHCR counts 6,7 million internally displaced persons in Syria, and as of March 2022, the UN agency counts 5,7 million Syrian refugees. Most of them have fled to Turkey, Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq and Egypt.

The war in Syria is not over and 11 years after it began, it has cost over half a million lives, whether it be militaries or civilians.

The economy of the country has collapsed and the UN estimates that 8 million of Syrian suffer from food deficiency, which represents more than half of the current population.

⚠ Let us not forget that this protracted conflict still forces people out of their home, costs innocent lives and destroys the country.

11 years of war in Syria

In 2011, the Syrian political, social and economical landscape is chaotic, which leads to a civil war, that is soon to become an international conflict.. On the eve of the morose anniversary of the war that has torn Syria apart, Eudaimonia Medical Services thinks of all the people who were and are still affected by this terrible conflict.

🔗 What is it? 🔗

👉 Since our start, Eudaimonia has been running the Complex Cases Program. We receive referrals of medical cases from various actors. The patients we work with and for cannot access public health services due to their legal status, a lack of availability, or to the very long waiting list to access certain medical services. For a lot of people, waiting for several months to be diagnosed can be life-compromising. One of our focus areas in the Complex Cases Program is Ophthalmology.

👉 Ophthalmology 👉

👉 Our program is essential for there are no other ophthalmology programs running in Lesvos at the moment, and due to strict medical protocols in the camp, lack of space, security and required logistics in coordination with all relevant actors, the ability to set up an eye clinic in camp is impossible. We see dozens of patients per month for the ophthalmology program.

💜 We need your support to continue our operation, please donate on this link: <https://chuffed.org/project/eudaimonia>

Complex Cases Program 1/3

Ophthalmology is often forgotten and set aside in humanitarian contexts, for it usually does not entail an emergency component. It is however crucial to provide people with the medical tools they need and prevent their sight from worsening over the course of time. Since November 2021, Eudaimonia has been in charge of the ophthalmology program, which includes eye exams and glasses as needed

📅 INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S RIGHTS DAY 📅

Eudaimonia Medical Services advocates for the safeguarding of women's rights.

👤 Right to work

"Everyone has the right to work, to free choice of employment, to just and favourable conditions of work and to protection against unemployment.", art. 23 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

By hiring experienced and skilled female translators, we create employment and economic sustainability.

👤 Right to health

"Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself [...], including [...] medical care", art. 25 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

By providing translation services for women, our female translators enable them to access medical care tailored to their needs (i.e. gynecologist, reproductive health) in a safe way.

👤 Female leaders

Eudaimonia Medical Services was co-founded by a woman and is now led by a team of six experienced women, whether it be on the ground or at the management level.

Our organization would not be able to carry out its work without the constant involvement and dedication of our female translators who put their skills and empathy at the services of female patients.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S RIGHTS DAY

Eudaimonia advocates for the safeguarding of women's rights. Women in migration regularly see their inherent human rights challenged. This is why we advocate for a comprehensive and tailored approach to their specific situations and needs. Almost half of the world's migrants are women (UN, 2019). We stand for their visibility and the acknowledgment and respect of their rights.

👋 GOODBYE MOHAMMAD 🙏

👋 Mohammad has been working with Eudaimonia Medical Services since the very beginning. We would not be the organization we are today without his constant enthusiasm, his dedication and his professionalism. We wish him the best of luck and above all we wish him the happiness he deserves!

"Mohammad is one of the coolest and calmest person that I saw in my life. I remember when we first met in Moria camp, we had good and bad days, but we would work together to help the people. I wish a good and safe life Mohammad. Noori, translator with Eudaimonia" - Noori, translator with Eudaimonia

"I remember the moment I met Mohammad. He told me his language wasn't very good but he wanted to help. We had him start at the front gate where advanced language skills weren't as needed - but it turns out this was just the start of his humility. His language was excellent and his leadership skills unparalleled. Promoting Mohammad to field coordinator was the best and easiest decision we could have made and I firmly believe we have come this far in large part because Mohammad was leading. I will never be able to imagine replacing him and at the same time know he will succeed in everything." - Katie, Executive Director of Eudaimonia

🔗 Thank you for working with us Mohammad!

March 1 - Today our interpreters, while on their way to work, saw the bodies of several people who had washed up on shore - who lost their lives seeking safety. Our hearts and thoughts go to their families and those who risked everything to reach a better life. It is a horrifying reminder coming at a very difficult moment for Europe, that we need to ensure asylum seekers' safety is prioritized, always. May you rest in peace. ✨

✘ Today Europe woke up to bombs for the second time in 70 years. People's lives have changed forever, for they have been forced to flee, lost their homes or beloved ones, feared for their future, all of a sudden.

Let us introduce our interpreters
/NOORI/
👉 "I left Afghanistan in 2017, when I was still studying economics in university. I got deported from Turkey back to Afghanistan in 2018. I left my country again in 2019 and was finally able to reach Greece. I studied English when I was at school and I learnt Pashto from my friends. I also learnt how to speak Urdu from movies. One of my hobbies is cooking because it distracts my mind and prevents me from overthinking. I also love travelling, seeing and visiting different countries and different people and cultures. After two and half years in Greece, working as a translator with Health Bridge, Eudaimonia and the International Committee of the Red Cross, I got my ID. I am really interested in learning more languages."

International Day of Human Fraternity

On February 4th, the world celebrates human fraternity, a value that is at the core of Eudaimonia's mandate and that guides our work and our teams every day.

We must learn to live together as

In a world where humans are facing wars, loneliness, hunger, social challenges, sickness, poverty and pain, fraternity is live together as brothers or perish together

sometimes what we have left to cope, to bring light into darkness. Keeping in touch with your elderly, checking on your neighbor, hugging a friend, volunteering with an NGO, listening to someone who needs to express their emotions, and so many other attentions, small or big, are what makes us human, sisters and brothers.

And you, when was the last time you experienced human fraternity?

YEAR IN NUMBERS

We were humbled and amazed to see the impact in numbers for 2021. Our organization isn't yet one year old and yet we feel we are actually having an impact on the lives of some of the thousands of people who have passed through or are stranded on Lesbos. We were able to facilitate hundreds of medical exams, provide thousands of interpretations and contribute to holistic medical care for everyone.

We could not have done this without the support of @chooselove or #Seenotrettung

Thank you for believing in a female and refugee-led organization.

We hope to see even more impact in 2022

HELP US TO KEEP GOING!

No one likes to start the holidays with stress. The reality is that difficulties in the humanitarian sector don't stop - no matter what day of the year it is. We are currently in need of some additional support as a major donor is unfortunately unable to continue to support us in the new year. Having just learned this information in the past week, we are looking at new ways to keep going.

One of our refugee interpreters, in recalling their "favourite moment of the year with Eudaimonia" said "I realized that Eudaimonia comes in when a refugee faces a dead end. When everywhere else has quit, that is where you'll find Eudaimonia".

This summarizes our vision so well. We don't want to give up. We don't want to say no. We want to keep going, no matter how difficult the situation becomes. We will soon celebrate our one year anniversary as an organization. Can you help us in the new year so that we can keep being the ears and mouth of refugees in Lesvos? Can you help us to continue to provide medical tests and access to advanced medical care?

NABIL'S STORY

One of the projects we are most proud of is our new "humanitarian corridor" program. Read about one of our beneficiaries - a remarkable man who, despite a series of misfortunes, is getting a new start on life. While he has a long road for recovery ahead of him, we are happy to have been supporting him and others like him.

IMPACT: COMPLEX CASE HUMANITARIAN CORRIDOR

EUDAIMONIA

MEDICAL

We strongly believe in doing everything in our power to make sure that anyone - regardless of who they are - receives the best available medical care. No matter what.

NABIL

We first met Nabil in September 2021 after being alerted about his vulnerable situation. He had recently become homeless and was suffering from a severe infection. Medical tests confirmed that the damage from an infection was irreversible and an amputation of his foot would be necessary.

OUR PLAN:

We provided Nabil with legal assistance through our partnership with a law firm in Athens. A doctor was consulted and a private appointment was set up. After a short wait, our incredible team was able to organize everything for him to travel to Athens to have his operation.

EMS brings together passionate and motivated aid workers with multi-year experience in the humanitarian sector working in both Greece and international scenarios with the objective of bringing a sense of dignity to those who seek out medical care.

- A relevant academic degree (International Development, Human Rights, Humanitarian Action etc.)

Assets

This is not an exhaustive list of requirements. If you feel you are qualified for this position, please send an email to contact@eudaimoniamedical.com with a CV and a cover letter. We welcome all those who apply, but will only contact those we consider for an interview.

ENG: The two-day "Pap Test" at the Agricultural Clinic of Loutrpoleos Thermi was completed today with complete success. 50 women living in the Municipal Unit of Thermi were examined proactively. Thanks to the Deputy Mayor of Social Welfare of the Municipality of Mytilene Mr. Dimitra Alexandri for her response to the request and Eudaimonia Medical Services AMKE that contributed to the implementation of the action.

The obstetrician-gynecologist Mr. Nikos Roupas who performed the examination, the midwife Mrs. Panagiota Havrali for her non-profit assistance as well as the doctor Mr. Nikolaos Chrysafidis for the concession of the doctor's office.

Every woman who respects and loves herself and her family should never neglect the Pap test. We hope that this two days will be the occasion that will become a habit for all women.

The Deputy Mayor of Social Welfare and Solidarity, Mrs. Dimitra Alexandri, stated: "Similar initiatives aimed at the prevention and health of women will continue in this ongoing struggle for the protection of the supreme good of life."

WOMEN'S HEALTH!

We are happy to announce that we will be providing up to 50 PAP tests for women in the Thermi area this month. This is open to Greek women who are unable to access cervical screenings due to financial barriers or a lack of insurance. By working with a local gynaecologist we are pleased to facilitate this project.

They showed us how over three years they've responded to hundreds of calls all over the island. Thank you for the warm welcome and we hope the emergency kits will be of good use to you!

ARE WE EVEN MAKING A DIFFERENCE?

When we talk about the humanitarian landscape, it is normal to feel overwhelmed by numbers, statistics, bad news, and difficult stories. We see the conditions people live in, and the health problems they must face. Admittedly, some day it feels like we're not doing enough. While it's true, there is always more to do, it helps to remember that these are human beings and any chance we have to improve their lives should always be taken. That's why we created a complex case program. And yes, we are making a difference, person by person.

While we had intended to only provide water during this past month's extreme heat wave, we noticed a huge benefit not only for patients waiting in the medical area but also for volunteer staff as well as those returning to the camp after visiting the doctor.

Therefore, we are now in week 4 of providing 45 liters of frozen water 5 days a week.

Huge thanks to our friends at Hoffnung leben e.V. for the continued support.

What do we do at the camp clinic?

We provide interpretation for the medical organisations working there, and we are responsible for crowd control, reception area and triage area. We welcome patients, check their symptoms for Covid (if they have some, we ask them to take covid quick test). We interpret during triage with doctors, and guide patients to their consultations, inside and outside the clinic, as well as providing interpretation.

We also provide medication when it can't be found elsewhere.

GRIEF

The majority of our translation team comes from Afghanistan. In the last two weeks, the increased violence in Afghanistan has personally affected our team of interpreters: it seems everyday there is a new death, injury, or heart-breaking story. For them, we turn black, in honour of the family and friends whose lives are being lost in the latest spate of violence. Afghanistan is not a safe country.

We received news of continued support from Hoffnung leben e.V. last week. We owe this organization a lot of gratitude - they keep our translators fed and happy while on shift, providing dozens of meals per day. Now that summer is here and temperatures soar, the ongoing provision of food and, especially, cold water has been much appreciated.

They have recently started their own project on Lesbos and we are hopeful it will provide a much-needed space for women to develop skills and find some personal space.

We believe in every humans right to safe and dignified living conditions and hope for a better future.

On June 7th, the Greek ministry of Migration and Asylum presented a new decision that recognises Turkey as a safe third country for people from Syria, Afghanistan, Somalia, Pakistan and Bangladesh. For us, it means a lot because it is the opportunity to see our team's words and reality highlighted.

Our team is almost entirely composed of asylum seekers and refugees, because we don't work for people, but with people.

We work all together to provide the best support we can for healthcare on Lesvos.

Being an interpreter in the humanitarian sector is one of the most challenging jobs in the world.

Medical translation and interpretation is crucial in order to facilitate refugees' access to medical care, this is why we acknowledge and honor the incredible job that our interpreters carry out everyday in multiple locations.

Last Friday our team of 30 interpreters came together with our coordinator team to have a small training about interpretation in emergency situation, which saw the precious contribution of our senior interpreters with insights and advices which were very appreciated by the new members of the team.

#COVID19 #Lesvos | Another recently funded grant in which we gladly sent €5200 (£4500) to Eudaimonia Medical Services for their Emergency COVID Response Outreach at RIC Lesvos.

As we celebrate being vaccinated, it can be easy to forget key workers in other places continue to risk their lives daily working with positive COVID patients and only basic PPE. Receiving this request from Eudaimonia was a stark reminder.

Katie, co-founder of Eudaimonia says -

"The second wave of Covid in the camp has caused a rapid and near-fatal situation. But we are learning that when people have the information they need, they are more calm. Many people feel that we are on the cusp of a serious incident in the camp, and our information campaign, plus following up with close contacts and spreading awareness messaging, will play a major role.

"As a one-off project we have been asked to provide additional support in terms of health promotion including:

- translating WHO texts,
- providing information about vaccines,
- providing NFIs (non food items) to isolation area, and more. We have a team who has trained for this, but it will require long hours and extra measures to ensure the safety of those in camp, as well as our team.

"While everyone is on the cusp of a panic about covid in the camp or, to the other extent, considerably apathetic believing covid to be a hoax, our team will have a big project to undertake over the coming six weeks."

We continue to be humbled to be able to help in such ways. So our enormous THANK YOU to everyone continuing to make donations, to those donating their birthdays, and more. This is where your money goes and we should all be proud to be making this difference.

And THANK YOU frontline workers everywhere

OUTREACH TRANSLATION - Our translation activities have recently brought us to a more collaborative stage. With a team of over thirty translators, we are able to offer our services to other organizations. In any given week, we are happy to provide translation to @medecinsdumonde in RIC Lesvos, to @fenixaid, @intersos_greece, @msfgreece, @hiasrefugees and others. Being able to provide translation services on an ad hoc basis means that we can work together to ensure patients, clients, and refugees are all receiving the highest quality care available.

HOSPITAL - Our very first project was working at the general hospital to provide translation services. We're happy to have been providing translation seven days a week, for sixteen hours per day for over a year now. In this time, our team has helped navigate thousands of translations, working closely with the nurses and doctors in the hospital. We often work closely with social services in the hospital to ensure that when patients are discharged, they are aware of what they need to do in order to ensure ongoing medical support.

NFIs (Non-Food-Items) - Whether providing wheelchairs, crutches, orthopaedic shoes; or blankets, clothing and specially-requested items, Eudaimonia is very involved with sourcing and delivering non-food items to residents of the camp. Medical equipment is an especially high need: for example, if someone breaks a leg, or for elderly residents who are in need of support. We also work closely with actors such as Eurorelief and Refugee 4 Refugees and medical actors to make sure we can source and deliver these items as quickly as possible.

MEDICAL APPOINTMENTS - One of the greatest obstacles for refugees and asylum seekers is access to diagnostic and secondary medical care. Working with a number of medical actors and NGOs, we facilitate the provision of medical services based on a referral system. This includes booking appointments with specialists, providing translation at appointments, and ensuring medical documents are put directly into the hands of medical actors to ensure the proper care of each patient. Want to help us? We could use support! <https://www.eudaimoniamedical.com/donate>

EMERGENCY TRANSLATION - Eudaimonia interpreters are experienced in providing translation in emergencies. Not only is it important to have excellent language skills - our translators must also be able to stay calm, engage with a patient who may not be able to speak, and maintain a professional yet compassionate attitude. We provide emergency translation in both the local hospital as well as the RIC Lesvos camp. Can you help us to keep providing these services? <https://www.eudaimoniamedical.com/donate>

Ramadan Mubarak 🌙

This Ramadan, we are reflecting. Who we were, who we are becoming, and who we will be.

On this occasion We reflect that what is best is to always go forward with others' well-being in mind. You may be burnt but you will never lose - your mind, your heart, your peace - when you focus on helping others.

We wish you health, patience, and a lasting sense of peace this Ramadan.

World Health Day - "Building a fairer, healthier world"

As stated by the WHO, Covid-19 has only highlighted that our world is an unequal one, its impact has been harshest on the communities who are less likely to have access to quality health care services.

Our team is committed to facilitating refugees' access to medical care through medical translation and medical services.

Thank you to the front line - those who put their lives on the line to ensure everyone has an opportunity to access one of the most fundamental human rights.

A HERO'S JOURNEY -

Nesar is a one in a billion type of person. Sincere, kind-hearted, selfless and dedicated, we were incredibly lucky to meet him nearly one year ago in Moria Camp. His journey as a refugee started years ago due to his involvement as a translator for the UK and US soldiers in Afghanistan. He and his wife survived against all odds and arrived in Lesvos on December 31, 2019 - minutes before midnight. Their next few months were spent under tremendous hardship enduring the most difficult parts of Moria. In May 2020 he joined our team of translators and quickly became one of our most invaluable volunteers. Always willing to come to shift early or stay late, assisting anyone who needed translation, he seemed to put everyone else's needs before his own.

When the first case of Covid was discovered in Moria, he volunteered to translate in the isolation area and spent his days sweating in a full hazmat suit under a scorching 30-degree sun.

On the night of the fire on September 8, 2020, Nesar was one of the first people in camp to notice something was not right. He immediately informed our management team who then were able to notify authorities. Through this action alone, Nesar may have saved countless lives - ensuring many people fled before fire reached their tent.

Nesar stayed awake for 40 hours, providing emergency translations to refugees...

Nesar stayed awake for 46 hours, providing emergency translations to whoever required them in the days after the fire. Throughout all of this, he was dedicated to making it to his final destination: UK. He wanted to meet the soldiers with whom he'd worked in Afghanistan. And after unending diplomatic efforts from both Greece and the UK, Nesar's wish came true.

Two weeks ago, Nesar and his wife landed in Britain - finding both freedom and a promise of a better life.

His absence on the ground has been felt and his contributions to our team were immeasurable. We know we will meet him again (he's already invited our whole team for tea) and we are so happy that someone who spent so long working so selflessly has finally reached his goal. We will never be able to properly convey our gratitude to you, Nesar. But we know that we were a better organization because of you.

We must also thank, especially, all the efforts of David Williams from the Daily Mail whose perseverance and dedication was a major factor in Nesar and his wife finally reaching the UK.

ZINZI 🙌

Once in awhile you meet someone who you know is going to have a profound impact on your life. Zinzi, our Logistics lead, has been with us since the very beginning. Whether she was throwing birthday parties for our translators, making up extra beds in our housing, rushing to bring essential items to patients, organizing administrative work, acting as a sounding board to volunteers, driving from one side of the island to the other, cooking for the team when we all would forget to eat...she was our core. There was no task too big or too small. Indeed after the fire in Moria she nearly single-handedly carried our team of translators as they navigated some of the hardest days of their lives.

This will be Zinzi's last week with us as she returns to Holland. The team loses a mother, a leader, a rock, a confidante and so much more.

Zinzi - you carried our team and it goes without saying that we would not have a team that is as loving and well-cared for if it weren't for you. The house would be a disaster, there would have been weeks we didn't eat, and we certainly would not have found ourselves at this place reaching as many people as we do.

Thank you for everything you do. Don't forget to come back soon. Yalla

BLOODWORK:
Thanks to generous donations we have been able to provide blood tests for patients who are not able to access it elsewhere. Collaborating with multiple partners, we now have a system where even the tiniest of patients can get expertly-skilled medical care.
Our translator Zaki (widely known around camp due to his happy nature and willingness to always help) helped keep both baby and mama calm so the infant was able to have her blood taken for important tests.
As always, these photos have been taken with parents' permission.

Our team has 6 females who have beaten the odds. They've achieved university education, traversed multiple countries, and managed to not only master their trade: they also are proficient in English. Why is this so incredible? The odds have been stacked against them.

Did you know that according to UNICEF 1 in 3 children are out of school in countries affected by conflicts or natural disasters?

Did you know that in countries like Afghanistan, whose education system has been devastated by decades of war, 60% of out-of-school children are girls?

From Congo, to Somalia, to Iran and Afghanistan, the gap between boys and girls enrolled in schools is significant. It is estimated that only 3 out of 10 girls attend Lower Secondary School in the Democratic Republic of Congo (UNICEF).

So to them we would like to say: thank you for never giving up, coming this far and helping your communities through this part of their journey.

In a typical day in the medical clinic inside RIC Lesvos, our translators work closely with other medical actors in different areas - crowd control, reception area, consultations and triage tables - in order to facilitate refugees' access to medical care.

"One of the most difficult parts of translating at triage is that you never know what you are going to get. Patients may start complaining of a headache, but after a few minutes you have a hard story of their lives. Maybe they've been abused or had to flee wars. Maybe they haven't had access to medical care in months or years. What we discuss at triage table might be the first time a patient has the chance to tell their story" tells Noori - Farsi translator in RIC Mavrovouni camp.

Temperatures plummeted last week on Lesbos, bringing high winds, snow, and a bone-chilling cold. Our translators were thrilled to receive donations from Kitrinos Healthcare of their winter wellness packages. This allowed patients who were being discharged from hospital to receive items that are often requested. Each package contained a vacuum-sealed thermos, vitamins, and honey - a small but necessary gesture to help get them through some of the toughest days.

As translators, we are the mouth of those we translate for. With this in mind, we know that translation is critical to ensuring refugees access care. Our translation team, made up almost entirely of refugees, work every day of the week providing translation services.

Our team currently translates in both the RIC Mavrovouni Camp in Lesbos, as well as in the Mytilini Vostaneio hospital. Recently, we have started translating for other actors on request. The demand for translation is high and our team members proudly speak more than twenty languages, cumulatively. Trainings and resources are offered to the team to ensure their knowledge of medical terms is up to date. We are proud to provide translation whenever it is requested and have felt privileged to know such a diverse group who are all united in helping communicate the needs of the patients.

Today we want to introduce you to one of our biggest programmes.

In our Complex Cases program we receive medical referrals from medical actors and organizations for MRIs, CTs, X-rays, Ultrasounds and Bloodworks that cannot be done through the public health system.

Once the exams are done, our team delivers the results to the patients in person and follows up with them to help them understand what they have to do to receive adequate medical care.

You may recognize Maryam from the incredible photos of Youusif Alshewaili.

We received a special pediatric wheelchair from a German couple with one request: the wheelchair had a sentimental meaning for them and they wanted to make sure it got to a child who was really in need of it.

Yesterday we met Maryam's family at the medical centre in RIC Lesvos and our translator learned that Maryam's previous wheelchair had been stolen.

For those who don't know her story, Maryam is just six years old and after facing more trauma than any person should experience in an entire lifetime, her psychological and physical health has been compromised. Not only has she stopped talking - she has also stopped being able to walk. Her last wheelchair was an adult wheelchair which didn't fit her properly.

Today we met her and her father to give them a special pediatric wheelchair that is suited to her needs. 🌈

"In the beginning, the anxiety and the fear, but as soon as we heard his crying, everything changed. It was one of the most exciting days of my life. Despite his haste to come into the world, everything went well "says Laila, the Farsi translator of our team in Mavrovouni Camp, Lesvos."

We are very proud of our team of translators working tirelessly to support medical staff and patients in RIC Lesvos! Thanks to Laila and Zahere who were a part of this moment άλλαξαν. Ήταν μια από τις πιο συναρπαστικές μέρες της ζωής μου. Παρά τη βιασύνη του να έρθει στον κόσμο, όλα πήγαν καλά» λέει η Laila, η μεταφράστρια Φαρσί της ομάδας μας στο Μαυροβούνι της Λέσβου.

Η Αφροδίτη, η Ελένη και η Δέσποινα ενημερώθηκαν από τους γιατρούς του ΕΟΔΥ πως στο camp υπάρχει μια έγκυος με έντονους πόνους. Αμέσως πήγαν και εξέτασαν τη γυναίκα και διαπιστώθηκε πως βρίσκεται σε τοκετό και πολύ σύντομα θα γεννούσε. Η ομάδα μας ειδοποίησε το ΕΚΑΒ και ταυτόχρονα μετέφερε την έγκυο στο ιατρείο μας, ξεκινώντας όλες τις απαραίτητες προετοιμασίες για να γεννηθεί με ασφάλεια το νεογνό. Ο χώρος ζεστάθηκε, ετοιμάστηκαν οι πετσέτες και με τη βοήθεια της Laila που μετέφραζε τις οδηγίες της Αφροδίτης, προετοιμάστηκε η μητέρα για αυτή τη σημαντική στιγμή της ζωής της. Λίγο μετά, το κλάμα του μωρού ακούστηκε στο ιατρείο και μαζί η ανακούφιση όλων που πήγαν όλα καλά. Η Ελένη και η Δέσποινα, φρόντισαν μητέρα και νεογνό μέχρι να τους παραδώσουν στο ΕΚΑΒ και να μεταφερθούν στο νοσοκομείο.

Χαιρόμαστε πολύ που - αν και αποφάσισε να έρθει λίγο νωρίτερα από ότι έπρεπε - όλα πήγαν καλά και ήρθε στον κόσμο ένα παιδί με ασφάλεια. Ευχόμαστε να είναι πάντα υγιές και καλότυχο και να βρει μπροστά του ένα κόσμο χωρίς διακρίσεις, ένα κόσμο με αγάπη και σεβασμό για όλους.

These are very hard days on Lesbos. The weather is extremely cold, with persistent strong winds, heavy rain and even snow! Despite these very difficult conditions our team works multiple shifts to cover as many hours in a day as possible to make sure that whoever needs it will receive high-quality medical care.
